was under arrest in Cincinnati. Baum was the erring son of a German family.

Meyer, Brandt and Muller proposed to insure Brandt's life in the name of Baum, and while Baum was in jail Brandt was to feign illness, a bogus corpse was to be put in his bed and a physician's certificate of the death of Baum (Brandt) thus obtained on which to claim the $8,500 insurance money.

There were several conversations, in one of which Dr. Meyer told Muller that he had been to see Baum, and was about to go to Germany to find out whether Baum had told him the truth about his family there and their weaith. He was going to take Mrs. Meyer along, introduce her as the wife of Baum and play upon the sympathies of Baums parents, get a lot of money from them for the purpose of getting young Baum out of prison, come back and use the money in carrying out the scheme for lisuring some man under the name of Baum.

Baum was ill at the time, and the scheme then was to wait till Baum died, when they would collect the amount of the policies.

Baum didn't dle. He got well, and was given his liberty. He was soon in jail again, this time in Mexico, and then the insurance scheme was modified, and the substitution of a corpse to impersonate Baum decided upon.

The conspirators, Meyer, Mrs. Meyer, Muller and Brandt, came to New York to work out the scheme. For the purpose Brandt married Mrs. Meyer under the name of Baum. ALBANY, April 27.—Senator Wolfert's ter H. Gantz for an absolute divorce from Cornella A. Gantz may be finished as quickly as possible. The first witness to-day was Katie Cook, a servant, formerly employed in the flats, 315 West Fifty-eighth street, next door to where the Gantzes lived.

with Miss Johnson.
On cross-examination, Mr. Kirk admitted that he had been guilty, a number of times, of improper conduct with Mrs. Pons. He refused to swear that he had not contributed to her support.
The witness' wife, who is a sister of Mrs. Gantz, and very much like her in appearance, sat facing her husband during his examination, and once or twice smiled at some of his admissions.

KELLY'S MEN DESERTING.

Over 120 Sucramento "Soldiers" Stole Away This Morning.

(By Associated Press.)
ADAIR, Ia., April 27.—One hundred ADAIR, Ia., April 71.—One hundred and twenty-one Sacramento men were missing to-day when Kelly massed his industrial army for the march. The men had asserted last night that they would walk no further, and as soon as breakfast was over, folded their tents and silently prepared to steal rides. They said they would not rejoin the army at Stuart to-night, but Kelly was confident that the seductive influence of the commissary would bring them back. The march to-day was begun under discouraging circumstances. Rain began falling soon after dawn, and the wagons that had been expected to carry the army falled to show up. There were scarcely sufficient teams to haul the bagage and the sick, and the grumbling among the men was loud and deep.

Kelly waited for teams, and then, discouraged, he ordered the army forward, telling the men to take the railroad instead of the wagon road if they wished. "But do not interfere with trains," he commanded. "If you do you cannot go further with me."

The bugier blew a faint blast and the companies moved forward. There were no cheers from the townspeople; no flowers for the "General." The men tramped silently along the soggy road, and at the first turn fully 250 of them turned up on the railroad and began a tie calculation.

The moincomy of the start was relieved by an interesting one-round mill between two of the industrials, who punched each other with marked energy and who shouted loudly when their comrades separated them.

punched each other with marked energy and who shouted loudly when their comrades separated them.

The eight-mile tramp to Casey was a dismal one and very slow, but a hot meal and coffee revived the men's courage and on the remainder of the trip better time was made.

One of the Council Bluffs advance committeemen, R. O. Graham, became convinced to-day that further efforts to secure wagon transportation for the army would be useless and returned home. The farmers in the vicinity are much less inclined to haul the men then those further West, and Graham became convinced that the army was billed for a foot march to Des Moines.

Kelly has spent considerable time today in organizing his baseball team, and expects to do battle on the diamond when he reaches Des Moines. A camp artist is preparing a banner for the club bearing the inneription, "Industrial" Nine-Silde, Kelly, side; on to Washington!"
